Hosted Wi-Fi Service

Your Separate Wireless Hot Spot Service For Everyone's Mobile Devices.

FlexLINK Gives You Broadband Connectivity Without Impacting Your Network or Your IT Team's Time.

Everyone has a smart phone and many people use tablet devices. Connecting them all through your organization's wireless network can be an administrative nightmare, particularly in schools and other campus-based organizations.

Management, maintenance, security... you probably don't even want to think about it! Here's a solution, bypass your network entirely with FlexLINK. It's the wireless hot spot service designed and installed to provide wireless access to everyone safely, securely, simply.

When You Think About it, the Applications for FlexLINK are Almost Endless.

Campus-based organizations like schools, research facilities, hospitals, and more can make life easier, their employees and their visitors happier and increase productivity with FlexLINK. In schools, think about the demands related to curriculum delivery and PARRC. In research facilities, think about the need for local and field collaboration of stationary and mobile devices. And allowing students, teachers, lab techs, visitors to use their own mobile devices adds another dimension of complexity.

Why Overburden Your Network and Risk Security When You Could Be Using FlexLINK?

FlexLINK is completely separate from your network and has its own dedicated bandwidth that won't impact the performance of your own network. STC will work with you to understand your routine and peak demands, security needs, content filtering and more, then design a system customized to your needs. Our engineers are experienced, licensed and design to the highest industry standards including IEEE and BICSI. Once your system is up and running, real people are at the ready to deliver all-the-time monitoring and a guaranteed 99.99% uptime. And believe it or not, FlexLINK requires no capital expenditure.

"We're big enough to handle your toughest, most elaborate projects, and small enough to get to know you and put you first. STC is your company."

Real People Means a Real Partner.

When it's time to tackle your organization's networking needs, then it's time to look at the companies that can provide that service. Price, technology and expertise are all considerations, but ask yourself which company will be a true partner? Which company stands ready with real people, not auto attendants and wait times? Which company proactively stops problems from happening? Which company guarantees 99.99% uptime, and delivers it? Which company is going to make your life easy, make your boss happy and keep your organization up and running? When you ask yourself those questions, the answer is simple. You work with STC.

STC is a telecommunications company that, since 1999, has been helping schools, government agencies, cities, towns and businesses communicate using voice, data and video. We do it by designing, installing and managing broadband wireless systems and hosted services. While we take pride in our technical achievements, the thing that we're most proud of is our personal service. We know our clients, and they know us. We keep it to that level and that's what keeps what we do real... and reliable, 99.99% reliable.
